THE VALUE OF CHARCOAL.

Few People Know How Useful It is in Preserving Health and Beauty.

Nearly everybody knows that charcoal is the safest and most elizione tishfectant and purifier in nature, but few realize its value when taken into the human system for the same cleansing pursone.

Charcoal is a remedy that the more you take of it the better; it is not a drug at all, but simply absorbs the gases and impurities always present in the stomach and intestines and carries shem out of the system.

Charcoal sweetens the breath after of the system.

Charcoal sweetens the breath after smoking, orinking or after eating onlong and other edorous vegetable.

Charcoal effectually clears and improves the complexion, it whitens the teeth and further acts as a natural and eminently safe cathartic.

It absorbs the injurious gases which collect in the stomach and bowers, it disinfects the mouth and throat from the polson of catarrit.

All druggists seif charcoal in one form or another, but probably the best charcoal and the most for the noney is in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges; they are composed of the finest powered Willow charcoal, and other harmiess antiseptics in tablet form or father in the form of large, pleasant tasting lozenges, the charcoal being mixed will lond;

The daily use of these lozenges will soon tell in a much improved condition of the general health, better condition, sweeter breath and purer blood, and the beauty of it is, that no possible harm can result from their continued use, but on the confrary, great benefit.

A Buffelo physician in speciating of the benefits of charcoal, says, "I advise stuart's Charcoal Lozenges to all parients suffering from gas in stomach and bowdes, and to clear the compression and purify the breath, mouth and threat; I also believe the liver is greatly benefited by the daily use of them, they cost but twenty-five cents a box at ding stores, and although in some sense a petent preparation, yet I believe I get increand better charcoal in altrant's Charcoal tablets." and better charcoal in any of the ordi-coal Lozenges than in any of the ordi-nary charcoal tableta."

IBSEN PLAY WAS WEIRD

'Ghosts" Drama That Works Upon the Nerves of an Audience.

BUT IT TEACHES A LESSON

Points Out Forcefully That Sins of the Father Shall be Visited Upon the Children.

"The sins of the father shall be visited pon the children." This Scriptural warning is powerfully impressed in Ib-sen's play, "Ghosts," which was presented at the Academy yesterday, aftersented at the Academy yesterias, and noon and evening.

One can but pity Mrs. Alving, whose life since her marriage has been devoted to guarding the closet in which this family skeleton is concealed. The bones of her husband have been rotting in the grave many years, and the spectre in the closet haunts only her own memory, when suddenly, without warning, the ghost of the dead appears in the person of her own son.

when his brain sounded the first warning of the awful end, little knowing at the time that the seat of his reason was affected, consulted a famous French physician, who caimly informed him of the disease which was just beginning to make itself manifest, though its germ, he said, had been there at birth.

Oswald, unable to work, to think, or even sleep, confesses his condition to his mother. Then it is that Mrs. Alving opens the closet door and discloses the skeleton which she has guarded with such vigiliance for so many years. She does

The "Tenderfoot."

The "Tenderfoot." which comes to the Academy to-morrow and Saturday, with matinee the latter day, is a musical comedy entirely out of the ordinary. Richard Carle heads the cast, and is supported by Edmond Stanley, Henry Norman, William Rock, Charles A. Morgan, Frances Knight, Nellie Lynch, Berlie McKenzie and Minerya Courtney. The chorus is large, and the claim is made that the girls are as pretty as any of the "show girls" who have been this way in a long time. The music of "The Tenderfoot" is bright and catchy, and the theme is a now one for the musical comedy or opera.
